

UNMANNED AIRSPACE

Weekly news bulletin – 22 October 2017

UAS traffic management system news

FAA selects Thales to help simplify drone access to NAS

FAA grants CNN permission to fly drones over people

Skyward approved by FAA to give drone operators access to low altitude airspace

Regulators start assessment of urban air taxi operations

FAA approves Daedalus commercial drone services in Boston

US Army “develops power line detection system for drones”

Counter-UAS systems and policies

SRC wins multiple Defense Department C-UAS contracts

UTM and C-UAS market analysis

“The next generation of drone threats will be swarms and completely autonomous drones”

Commentary

“New regulations, airspace change and psychology – the key to unlocking drone potential”

If you wish to add email recipients to this list or unsubscribe please send message to newsletter@unmannedairspace.info

For all editorial matters please contact the editor, Philip Butterworth-Hayes on philip@unmannedairspace.info.

For advertising and sponsorship please contact Kay Rolland at Kay.rolland@gmail.com